Input sought on improving children's success, health

Children First for Oregon wants to know what you think kids really need to ensure their success and health in anticipation of its 1999 report card on the status of child well-being in the state.

What areas need the most work?
Education? Poverty? Health care?
Send a brief note either listing three areas that need the most work for youth or the one thing you would make better for Oregon's kids.

Submit concerns in writing no later than October 10 to: Children First for Oregon, 921 SW Morrison St. Suite No. 418, Portland, 97205 or via e-mail to childrenfirst@inetarena.com.
