Mercy Medical Center was honored last week as one of 10 Oregon companies that demonstrate dedication to families and community.

Mercy received its recognition at the fifth annual Families in Good Company Awards, held May 7 in Portland. The awards are sponsored by Children First for Oregon and Portland General Electric.

The Roseburg hospital received a Quality Seal designation, which notes commitment to family-friendly practices.

Victor Fresolone, chief executive officer for Mercy, said by providing flexibility in the workplace, the hospital not only helps its employees but reaps the benefits of greater retention and loyalty.
